WILLIAMSTOWN.

"Tom" Sanders of Haverhill, Mass., was a guest at the Monument house the first of this week.

Our village creamery patrons received 23 1/2 cents per pound for butter fat the first of this week.

We hardly recall a church service at the Congregational house here when the Congregational singing was more satisfactory than last Sunday morning, such was the superb help of the union chorus at the time.

Rev. H. Martin tells us that his son, Rev. Jesse A. Martin, has found that the change from a Vermont parish to one in Connecticut has been beneficial to his health. Our Vermont winters were too severe for him.

Horace M. Farnham, a native of Willamstown but an adopted son of East Montpelier, was at the old home here the first of the week. He told us that week before last he sold 34 horses. He has just received a carload of 22 horses from Chicago.

Will Baker, who is related by marriage to the Holt family on our east hill and who has lived in late years in the old Calvin Flint farmhouse, has moved to a tenement in the Poble house in our village and is working for Read Commissioner O. A. Blanchard on our highways.

R. H. Martin recently put into the Barre Times an advertisement for farm help, and in a short time had seventeen replies. He took two colored men, with families, that live in his tenement house, once the old Squire Benedict house. He is said to be much pleased with the way the most start in their work.

We recently heard two of our farmers in a sidewalk conversation on the matter of the most desirable oats for sowing, as they look at it; and the "Swedish" or "Swedish variety" seemed good enough for them. One of them had lately bought some in eastern Massachusetts at a cost, we think, of 85 cents a bushel, for seed.

Rev. W. N. Roberts has just been returned to our Methodist church for his third year here. He is to be congratulated on one thing, at least, and that is that he is to have the first year of the church building that he was a largely instrumental in having so greatly improved last year. We wish him and his church the highest success as they follow in the great work to which they are called here.

Our near neighbor, Mrs. Sarah Abbott, widow of the late Fred Freeman, of Brookfield and mother of granite cutter Arthur Freeman, reached her 87th birthday on Monday, the 18th inst. She was born in Piermont, N. H., and it was while visiting "Abbe's friends" in Brookfield that she made the acquaintance of the man that she later married, Mrs. Freeman is remarkable, it seems to us, for her well-preserved condition of body and mind. She is a woman of the most positive convictions, a great reader and much interested in the stirring questions of the day, in religion, politics and science, and is a champion defender of any good cause that she heartily espouses. It is good to have such sterling old New England women and mothers with us. She lives here with her son, where she has a most excellent home.

Our census taker, a woman, who makes herself very agreeable in the work, finds some people who have the notion that it is a very formidable experience they are to go through, when she calls on them; and she wishes that in some way they might get rid of this idea before she calls. We recall here the experience of one of the late "funny men"—Bill Nye, possibly—who told of having his life insured at one time. He said the first question asked of him was, "Are you male or female?" "I am, sir," he said. "That is one of the things the census taker wants 'stated.'" One need not shrink from that. When the enumerator wants to know "how long you may have been in this case," you may win a little, but she is sworn never to tell, so don't be afraid of her, fellow citizens, don't!

Mrs. Payne Wright, an invalid daughter of Mrs. Sumner Whittier, has this week gone to Greenfield, Mass., once her home, for a visit with old friends. Her two young daughters went with her.

After a visit of some ten days at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Nixon, Mrs. E. C. Blanchard returned to her home in Manchester, N. H., not many days ago, and on Monday Mrs. Nixon was summoned by telegram to Manchester by the death of her own sister, Mrs. Myrtle Olmstead, that occurred at a hospital, following surgery. Mrs. Olmstead left two children, of the ages of eleven and six years. It was only a few years ago that Mrs. Olmstead's husband died after a surgical operation in Manchester.

Our estimable old friend, Rev. Dr. William S. Hazen, formerly of Northfield, writes us under recent date from Beverly, Mass., as to his health, that he had seemed to be doing well till the 16th inst., when he was suddenly brought to the hospital and had hardly been out of the house since. In the meantime, his physician had visited him daily. But he thinks he is now improving, and he hopes to be better than for some time.

RANDOLPH.

Mrs. E. T. Salisbury is ill with an attack of rheumatic fever.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Ball of South Royalton visited at John Butterfield's Tuesday.

Very favorable news comes from Mrs. E. A. Thomas, and she is expected to make the journey home in a few days.

Lemuel Richardson, who has not for some time been in good health, is now quite ill from a kidney disease. On Tuesday afternoon he was much more comfortable and his condition was favorable.

Miss Margaret Hudson will soon close her labors as bookkeeper in the L. A. Ford market, and will go to Mrs. E. H. McIntyre's for the summer. Miss Ida Rand succeeds her as bookkeeper in the Ford market.

News has been received here of the marriage Tuesday, April 19, in New York City of Floyd Clarkson Bancroft to Miss Lilla Leonard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hasselbink of that city. The bride is the daughter of Prof. Hasselbink, a prominent resident of New York, who was for some time concert master at the Metropolitan opera house, New York. It was a singular fact that they were married in the same church where the bride's parents were married years ago, and the date was the wedding anniversary of the groom's parents. Mr. Bancroft was well known here, having passed many summers in town at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Ellen Blanchard.

Electric Car Schedule Knocked Away by Motor Troubles.

No electric cars were running yesterday from morning until late at night, making one of the longest days the electric road has had since it was in operation. The trouble started over a week ago when the motor generator at the car barn was put out of order. Since then the cars had run on the converter until Monday evening, when it was necessary to throw the load into the storage batteries. Yesterday, however, it was necessary to suspend the schedule but it was resumed this morning. George Counter, who was so severely burned about the face and eyes Monday, while at work on the converter, was out yesterday. It was at first thought that the burn he received would result in the loss of an eye, but his condition is more favorable and his sight will probably be saved.

Stanley Quessal, employed in the tailoring establishment of Albert Gaudreau, and Miss Delma Menard were married in St. Augustine's church yesterday. They will reside here. Mr. Menard and Albert Gaudreau attended the couple.

James E. Davidson presented his resignation last night at a special meeting of a committee of the directors of the Y. M. C. A. The resignation was laid on the table for action at the next meeting, which will be held to-morrow night. Mr. Davidson leaves soon for his new work in the West.

T. D. Robert and Mrs. Francis Edwards are the two largest land owners in Barre, the former owning 600 acres there and Mrs. Edwards 300 acres. Mr. Robert has just purchased 60 acres more, 40 of W. W. Taft and 20 of S. B. Silbey. He is a resident of Tampa, Texas, where he is interested in land development.

The board of trade met yesterday afternoon and set the date of the first Montpelier day as April 22. Special attractions will be set forth by the merchants and a committee was appointed to take up the matter of lower rates for that day with the railroads. Montpelier day is to be observed once a month and a new committee will be appointed for each one, that some competition may be had. The first one consists of Emily Jerome, M. J. Dwinell and F. W. Mitchell.

NORTHFIELD.

Miss Mary E. Doherty has been re-elected as a teacher in the Montpelier schools.

Hollis L. Rich of Northfield Falls has been granted a release of pension at the rate of $30 per month from March 26.

Rev. J. B. Sargent, pastor of the Congregational church, has been invited to deliver the Memorial Day address here and has accepted the invitation.

John E. Plimmett has a position as policeman in the granite sheds of Phillips & Slack and has resigned as chief of police, which took effect Friday.

The executive committee of the Universalist convention of Vermont and the Province of Quebec met with Rev. George E. Fortier Tuesday for the quarterly meeting.

Work on the John L. Burns granite shed has progressed sufficiently to allow the starting of the polishing machines, and the traveling derrick, which has been thoroughly repaired by the makers, the Lane Manufacturing company, is on the tracks again.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Play With But Four People in Cast Coming to Barre.

It hardly seems possible that a play in which only four people take part could interest an audience for over two hours and a half, but according to the opinion of every dramatic critic in New York, such was the case. The play in mind is Joseph M. Webber's "The Climax," which receives its premier in this city at the opera house at an early date.

The play has in its cast just four people, three men and one woman. Each of the quartette of players is not only an actor, but also a good piano player, singer, and especially a thorough musician.

Mrs. Rufus Gray was given a post card showing the 17th of this month by her many friends, the occasion being her birthday.

There will be a social dance at Memorial hall, North Calais, Friday evening, April 29. Van Orman's orchestra will be in attendance.

NO FEAR OF BEEF TRUSTS.

Golden Words of Wisdom Arent the "Back to the Farm" Slogan.

Here is the view of a Vermont farmer, who signs himself "A Farmer from Town," in a recent letter to a New York paper:

We in the hills have watched with great interest the widely varying comments on the high prices and means for restoring less costly living.

"Back to the farm is the only remedy," but what will induce labor to go back to producing food? The farming population, a fairly large proportion, has simply asserted its right to choose where to work for a living. If labor prefers to build automobiles or to manufacture ladies' hands or even, as we see it, to make cheap wrappers in a New England factory town rather than work on a farm, what is to be done?

The only way to make those one time farmers go back to work on the land is to make it pay, and that would mean higher prices than are now paid the farmer. At present 7 cents per pound, dressed, is the best the farmers of this region receive for beef, 3 cents per quart for milk richer in fat than most that is sold in cities, and vegetables for nearly nothing back from the railroads. But already "the ultimate consumer" pays more than he wishes.

The remedy is back to the farm with "the ultimate consumer" himself! If he will forego fashionable clothes, champagne and champagne duck, be content with the best beef, muttons and chickens, milk, cream, cheese and butter that any market affords, the city rebel could, with no more than a few thousand invested in land and $500 a year, live like a lord in lovely surroundings and spend some time in town as well.

If, like us, he chops and hauls some of his own wood, plows his own land and cares for his own garden, $2,500 to invest and $200 a year would give freedom and good living—hard for well to do folks to find in town.

On the farm we have no fear of beef trusts nor of linens. When six months' illness follows a sickness we have a year's food ready, some "critters" to sell, a cellar full of vegetables and an unfailing supply of rich milk from which we make our butter and cheese.

To Build Lime Spreaders.

Very useful as a farming adjunct is a distributor for spreading lime, ashes or bone on land. A machine built for this purpose by a New York farmer is thus described:

The axle of an old mowing machine is first cut in two and made as long as the machine is to be. Five collars are then shrunk on to the axle equal distances apart in such a manner as to hold the four feed bars about one inch from the axle. One by three-eighths inch iron feed bars are then fastened to the collars with tap bolts and the heads cut off and riveted, making a cylinder which acts as a force feed with revolving with the wheels. The same wheels and ratchets are used that were on the old mowing machine, so it can be put in and out of gear.

The sides of the hopper are constructed of one and one-quarter inch lumber, and the ends are made of two inch hard wood, with iron plates screwed on where the axle passes through to prevent wearing. The inside of the hopper is made one-half inch longer than the force feed cylinder, so it will work easily. The ends and sides of hopper are made separately and put together on the machine. The whole bottom of the machine is then covered with heavy galvanized iron with a 1 by 2 inch hole every six inches, and over this a false bottom is placed so it will slide toward either end to regulate the feed. This false bottom is held in place with three straps made of hoop iron, fastened to the sides of the hopper and worked with a lever at the back. The force feed must work very closely to the holes in the galvanized iron to prevent clogging. The pole is bolted to a 4 by 4 inch stick as long as the hopper. This stick is fastened eighteen inches in front of hopper by bolting it solidly to the two draft irons made of 2 by half inch iron at each end, through which the axle passes, and two heavy braces which hold the hopper in position.

New Variety of Fruit.

The peccot is the name given to a new variety of fruit that seems to have originated in the Yakima valley, near North Yakima, Wash. Two men working separately, each without the knowledge of the other, reached the same results. The fruit is a cross between the peach and the apricot. It is not so large as the peach, but is earlier than either the peach or apricot. It will be valuable as an early fruit because it comes into bearing and ripens soon after strawberries are in the market. It is earlier than the earliest peaches and has a fine flavor. It has a beautiful yellow color, with a bright red cheek, making it an attractive fruit when nicely boxed and ready for the market.

GOLD DUST Makes Hard Water as Soft as Rainwater

Every good housewife knows the value of nice, soft rain-water for washing clothes and for all cleansing purposes. It isn't always convenient to secure rain-water, however. Neither is it necessary. Gold Dust will soften the hardest water, take out the mineral substances and make it so near like the water that falls from the clouds that you couldn't tell the difference.

Think what this means to you on wash-day. There's a deal of difference between the action of hard and soft water for all cleansing. Just a little Gold Dust added to the water renders it soft and brings out the greatest cleansing value.

Try it the next time you wash clothes or dishes. Gold Dust really cleanses so easily that it relieves housework of all its drudgery.

"Let the GOLD DUST do your work!"

GUARD MILL AT MILTON.

Townsmen Doing Picket Duty with All Available Revolvers.

Milton, April 20.—The strike situation is still unchanged locally and will remain so until the general strike of the paper makers' union is settled. The mill is well supplied with help and running as usual. A number of the townsmen have been sworn in as a special guard for the mill armed with all the revolvers that could be procured from the Milton Hardware Co., and are doing picket duty at the mill to prevent any possible trouble that might arise. The strikers are making gardens and doing other work at their homes and awaiting the final decision from headquarters. If the strike is successful they will return to their work, but if not most of them will doubtless go elsewhere.

Many of the experienced men left the mill some time ago, when they were required to run three grinders instead of the two they had run since the mill was built, and with extra work on process and in other departments, where more help had been formerly employed. The men had become generally dissatisfied and had found other work before the commencement of the strike.

NO FIRE AUTOMOBILE.

St. Johnsbury Reconsiders Its Vote for Modern Apparatus.

St. Johnsbury, April 20.—By a vote of 240 to 82, this village last night reconsidered its vote authorizing a central fire station and the purchase of a combination automobile chemical engine. The meeting adjourned without date.
